Berklee Shares offers 'free' music lessons

by ron carlson, Insanely Great Mac
November 17th 2003

Berklee Shares is new site dedicated to putting music in the hands of the people. With dozens of "free" music lessons delivered via MP3 tracks, QuickTime vids and .pdf guides, this site has the makings of a music mecca for the DIY musician.

Features of the site include:

- o Individual self-contained music lessons developed by Berklee faculty and alumni;
- o Free and open to the music community around the world;
- o A library of MP3 audio, QuickTime movie, and PDF files; and
- o A glimpse into the educational opportunities provided by Berklee.

According to spin on Berklee Share, lessons have been culled from Berklee Press books and DVDs and online music courses at Berkleemusic.com.

Editor's note: In a word, "cool."
